

THE POETRY CLUB.

TERM'S PROGRAMME.

Wordsworth.

Lewis Morris, "Epic of Hades."

Pope, "The Dunciad, or the Rape of the Lock."

Matthew Arnold.

Rudyard Kipling, "The Seven Seas."

Henry Vaughan.

Owing to the illness of the Secretary there are unfortunately no notes for this term's work in the Poetry Club. The meetings have been carried on regularly and have been much enjoyed.

THE NEW BADGES.

The new badges—enamel work on silver of the same design as at present, but of smaller size—are in hand, and should be ready about Christmas time. The price is expected to be not more than 3s. 6d. each. Orders accompanied by remittances should be sent to either the secretary or the treasurer.

NEXT ISSUE.

We hope that funds will admit of the Magazine being published quarterly next year. Therefore, as the next issue should be on March 25th, all contributions should be forwarded to the Editor,

R. A. PENNETHORNE,

Thames Cottages,

Green Street,

Sunbury,

not later than March 1st.

The Editor is thankful and grateful for mere crumbs at any time, and must regretfully point out that the delay in the issue of the current number is due entirely to lack of material, only one article having arrived by the given date. Articles are especially invited on the following topics:—

"How and where to spend our holidays."

"How to start a debating club."

"Our responsibility in children's friendships."
